

-----Original Message-----

From: Martha Brunette [mailto:Martha.Brunette@sunh.com]

Sent: Thursday, January 31, 2008 12:37 PM

To: This e-mail was send out too a dozen other therapist that work under the supervision of Martha, who's names and addresses were deleted.

Cc: rudy@bxlintl.com

Subject: FW: New product

Hello all,

PT's and OT's, below is an e-mail I recieved from Rudy DeGroot who was kind enough to show us some of his fabulous equipment at our Meeting in September. As a result of your feedback he recieved with us they have developed a new arm tray. He is looking for additional input. That is really exciting that your suggestions are being implemented so please encourage your staff to look at the attached document (photo of tray) and let him know what you think.

Also, if you have not tried the Key Hole Back yet for your moderate to severe kyphotic patients I encourage you to do so. I just put one on a patient here (101yrs old) after trying multiple items we had here in house non of which were working. When I followed up with her the next week she smiled and said "I love it" and as a result of improved back comfort she also had improved hip comfort which surprised me---makes me wonder how she was muscle gaurding/posturing previously.
